4 (“Mugavero”), Roger Wing (“Wing”), David Eason (“Eason”), Joe Dyer (“Dyer”), Doug 5 Finlayson (“Finlayson”), Phil Twente (“Twente”), Bob Wolf (“Wolf”), John Jackson (DOE 1), and 6 Laura Jackson (DOE 2) (collectively, “Defendants”) hereby submit the following points and 7 authorities in support of Defendants’ special motion to strike plaintiffs Janette Manderson
8 (“Manderson”), in her individual capacity, as attorney-in-fact for Catheryn Smith a.k.a. Kay 9 Smith, as Trustee of the Chuck Smith 1990 Family Trust (the “Trust”), and as the personal 10 representative of the Estate of Charles W. Smith (the “Estate”); and The Word for Today, Inc.’s 11 (“TWFT”) (collectively, “Plaintiffs”) First Amended Complaint (“FAC”), pursuant to Code of 12 Civil Procedure, section 425.16:

13 I. INTRODUCTION

14 The FAC alleges seven causes of action arising out of Defendants’ allegedly wrongful 15 publication and radio broadcast of recorded sermons and other pastoral materials created by long-16 time Senior Pastor of the Church, Chuck Smith, within the course and scope of his employment at 17 the Church. The sermons are broadcast over the Church’s radio network as a part of its outreach 18 and evangelism efforts. The broadcasts therefore amount to constitutionally protected religious 19 speech on the part of the Defendants. Plaintiff TWFT alleges that it is the rightful owner of the 20 intellectual property at issue, and that Defendants’ broadcasts of the materials infringe TWFT’s 21 copyrights; Defendants deny TWFT’s ownership claim. However, the federal Copyright Act, 22 which preempts all state law claims to the ownership of copyrighted materials, provides that 23 exclusive jurisdiction over copyright claims lies in the federal courts. Therefore, TWFT cannot 24 prevail on any of its seven causes of action, as the state court lacks jurisdiction to grant it relief.

25 In addition, the FAC alleges two causes of action based on Defendants’ alleged 26 misappropriation of funds that rightfully belong to Chuck Smith’s widow, Catheryn Smith.

27 ¹ The Church was erroneously sued as both Calvary Chapel Costa Mesa and Calvary Chapel Costa Mesa d/b/a The 28 Word for Today. However, The Word for Today is a registered fictitious business name of Calvary Chapel of Costa Mesa, not a separate legal entity.

1 Plaintiffs allege that Defendants withheld these funds with the intention of depriving Ms. Smith of 2 the financial means to challenge Defendants' alleged copyright infringement. Therefore, by 3 Plaintiffs' own allegation, the seventh and eighth causes of action arise out of conduct in 4 furtherance of Defendants' continued broadcast of the recorded sermons. However, these causes of 5 action are not brought by Catheryn Smith herself, but rather by her daughter, Plaintiff Manderson.
6 Because Manderson lacks standing to pursue claims that belong to her mother, these causes of 7 action cannot succeed on the merits. Moreover, even if Catheryn Smith were properly a party, the 8 indisputable evidence shows that she has received all funds to which she is legally entitled.

9 For all of these reasons, and those that follow, Defendants respectfully request that the court 10 enter an order striking the FAC in its entirety, pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure §425.16.

11 II. SUMMARY OF RELEVANT FACTS

12 A. The Parties

13 Plaintiff Janette Manderson is the eldest daughter of Catheryn and Chuck Smith, the attorney-14 in-fact for Catheryn Smith, the trustee of the Trust, and executrix of the estate of Chuck Smith, 15 who passed away on October 3, 2013. (FAC, ¶1.) Plaintiff TWFT is a non-profit religious 16 corporation that was incorporated by Chuck Smith and his brother, Paul, in 1978. (FAC, ¶4.)
17 Manderson is also a member of the Board of Directors of TWFT.

18 Defendant CCCM is a non-profit religious corporation which operates under the fictitious 19 name of The Word for Today. (FAC, ¶5.) Defendants Brodersen, Mugavero, Wing, Eason, Dyer, 20 Finlayson, Twente, Wolf, John Jackson, and Laura Jackson are directors, officers, or employees of 21 the Church. (FAC, ¶6.)

22 B. The Intellectual Property at Issue

23 Chuck Smith was hired by the Church as Senior Pastor in November 1965. (FAC, ¶13.) Over 24 the forty-eight years that Chuck Smith was Senior Pastor, he delivered innumerable sermons and 25 pastoral messages to the congregation at the Church and at pastoral conferences, and made several 26 presentations at Christian conferences, events, and even during trips to the Holy Land. (FAC, ¶14.)
27 Pastor Smith's teachings were captured or recorded in various forms of media, and often re-28 broadcast over television, radio, or internet. (Ibid.) He also wrote several books, outlines,

1 pamphlets, and even his own study Bible. (Ibid.)

2 For over 20 years, the Church has been broadcasting Pastor Smith's pre-recorded sermons on a 3 radio program called The Word for Today. (Wing Decl., ¶3.) The Word for Today is aired over the 4 Church's radio station, KWVE. (Ibid.) The Church also broadcasts other Gospel programs and 5 pastoral messages, all as part of its outreach and evangelism efforts, through which it reaches 6 believers throughout the world. (Ibid.) The Church's broadcast division has never been for-profit;
7 in fact, many of the recorded broadcasts are made available for download free of charge. (Wing 8 Decl., ¶4.) The broadcasts serve a solely religious and community service-based purpose. (Ibid.)

9 Plaintiffs implicitly concede the sermons created by Pastor Smith in the course and scope of 10 his employment belonged to the Church under the work for hire doctrine. On February 12, 1998, 11 however, Plaintiffs contend the Church executed a resolution transferring all rights to and interests 12 in Chuck Smith's writings and tapes to TWFT. (FAC ¶21, Exh. 1.) Defendants contest the validity 13 of the 1998 transfer, as evidenced by the Church's June 23, 2009 resolution rescinding the transfer.
14 (See FAC ¶30.) Nevertheless, TFWT alleges it is currently the sole owner of all copyrighted 15 materials created by Chuck Smith. Defendants deny this allegation and maintain that the Church 16 owns all materials created in the course and scope of Chuck Smith's employment at the Church.

17 C. The Life Insurance and Annuity Plans

18 In or about 1997, Chuck Smith purchased a life insurance policy on his own life. (Dyer Decl., 19 Exh. B.) The plan included a $1 million guaranteed death benefit. (Ibid.) On or about September 20 27, 2006, Chuck Smith executed a "Request for Change of Beneficiary Form," which designated 21 CCCM as the sole beneficiary of the life insurance plan. (Ibid.) Catheryn Smith also signed the 22 change of beneficiary form the same day, as may have been required by community property law.
23 (Ibid.) Thus, since 2006, CCCM has been the sole and rightful owner of any and all benefits under 24 the life insurance plan.

25 In or about 1997, CCCM purchased an annuity plan for the benefit of Chuck and Catheryn 26 Smith. (Dyer Decl., ¶3, Exh. A.) The plan paid a monthly premium to the Smiths for the remainder 27 of Chuck Smith's life. (Dyer Decl., ¶4.) Unfortunately, Pastor Smith died in October 2013. (FAC, 28 ¶3.) Shortly after Pastor Smith's death, in November 2013, the Church, which had purchased the 1 annuity, received a transfer of benefits form from the issuer of the annuity, Canada Life.

2 (Mugavero Decl., ¶3.) Defendant Mugavero forwarded the transfer of benefits forms to Catheryn 3 Smith's financial advisor, Rick Fromm, so that the benefits could be fully transferred to Ms.
4 Smith. (Ibid.)

5 In or about January 2014, CCCM received a follow up from Canada Life, stating that the 6 transfer of benefits had not been completed. (Dyer Decl., ¶4.) Defendant Dyer contacted Plaintiff 7 Manderson and assisted her in completing the transfer of benefits forms. (Ibid.) In April 2014, 8 Dyer received a voicemail from Canada Life, stating that all forms had been received, but that a 9 box had been marked on the forms indicating that CCCM would still be responsible for 10 withholding income taxes from each of the benefits payments. (Dyer Decl., ¶5.) In order to remove 11 the Church from the role of middle man, Defendants completed a form which transferred full 12 ownership of the annuity to Catheryn Smith. (Ibid.) This form was mailed to Manderson for her 13 mother's signature. (Ibid.) Thereafter, Dyer confirmed with Canada Life that all funds owed to 14 Catheryn Smith, including all payments in arrears, in a total amount of $66,666.64, were wired to 15 Ms. Smith's account on May 27, 2014. (Dyer Decl., ¶6.) Defendants no longer have any 16 ownership or control over the annuity plan or its benefits, and to Defendants' knowledge, all funds 17 owed have been paid to Catheryn Smith.

18 III. THE ANTI-SLAPP REMEDY

19 A defendant may file a special motion to strike at any time within sixty days of service of a 20 plaintiff's complaint. (Code Civ. Proc. §425.16(f).) Moreover, amending the complaint "reopens" 21 the time period for an anti-SLAPP motion. The sixty-day period for filing the motion runs from 22 service of the most recent amended complaint, not from the original complaint. (Country Side 23 Villas Homeowners Ass'n v. Ivie (2011) 193 Cal.App.4th 1110, 1116.)

24 The anti-SLAPP statute protects individuals who exercise their constitutionally protected rights 25 of petition or free speech from the burdens of meritless and retaliatory litigation at an early stage 26 in the proceedings by subjecting these lawsuits to a special motion to strike. (Code Civ. Proc.
27 §425.16(b)); Dixon v. Superior Court (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 733, 741.) To achieve its goal, the 28 statute is to be "construed broadly." (Code Civ. Proc. §425.16(a).) In keeping with this

1 mandate, the Supreme Court has held that the anti-SLAPP statute is not limited to any particular 2 cause of action. (Navellier v. Sletten (2002) 29 Cal.4th 82, 89.) Rather, the determining factor in 3 deciding whether the anti-SLAPP statute applies is whether or not the complaint arose out of the 4 defendant's protected speech. (Ibid.)

5 The anti-SLAPP statute involves a two-step process for determining whether a claim is subject
6 to being stricken. In the first step, the defendant bringing the anti-SLAPP motion must make a 7 prima facie showing that the plaintiff's suit is subject to section 425.16 by showing the defendant's 8 challenged acts were taken in furtherance of his or her constitutional rights of petition or free 9 speech in connection with a public issue, as defined by the statute. (Jarrow Formulas, Inc. v.
10 LaMarche (2003) 31 Cal.4th 728, 733.)

11 Once the defendant has established the plaintiff's claims arise out of protected activities, the 12 burden shifts to the plaintiff to establish the "probability" that he will prevail on his claims against 13 the defendants. (Code Civ. Proc. §425.16(c); Code Civ. Proc., §425.16(b)(1); Navellier v. Sletten, 14 supra, 29 Cal.4th at pp. 88-89.) To establish a probability of prevailing, the plaintiff must show 15 that "the complaint is both legally sufficient and supported by a sufficient prima facie showing of 16 facts to sustain a favorable judgment." (Id.; see also Premier Med. Mgmt. Systems, Inc. v.
17 California Ins. Guar. Ass'n (2006) 136 Cal.App.4th 464, 476.) Averments on information and 18 belief are insufficient. (Evans v. Unkow (1995) 38 Cal.App.4th 1490, 1497-1498.) In this phase, 19 the plaintiff must show both that the claim is legally sufficient and that there is admissible 20 evidence that, if credited, would be sufficient to sustain a favorable judgment. (McGarry v. Univ.
21 of San Diego (2007) 154 Cal.App.4th 97, 108.) The burden on the plaintiff is governed by the 22 same standard applicable to summary judgment, nonsuit, and directed verdict motions. (Seelig v.
23 Infinity Broadcasting Corporation (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 798, 809.) Thus, the plaintiff must 24 present evidence to overcome all privileges and defenses to the claims.

25 IV. PLAINTIFFS' ENTIRE LAWSUIT ARISES FROM PROTECTED ACTIVITY

26 A defendant bears the initial burden of demonstrating that the suit against it arises from 27 conduct which is protected under the anti-SLAPP statute. To invoke the protection of the statute, a 28 defendant need only make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff's complaint "arises from" the

1 defendant's constitutionally protected free speech or petition activity. (Code Civ. Proc., 2 §425.16(e); Equilon Enterprises, LLC v. Consumer Cause, Inc. (2002) 29 Cal.4th 53, 61.)

3 The anti-SLAPP statute protects “any act in furtherance of the person’s right of petition or free 4 speech under the United States Constitution or the California Constitution.” (Code Civ. Proc.
5 §425.16(b).) Protected activities include (1) statements and writings made before a legislative, 6 executive, or judicial proceeding, “or any other official proceeding authorized by law;” (2) 7 communications “made in connection with an issue under consideration or review by a legislative, 8 executive, or judicial body, or any other official proceeding authorized by law;” (3) statements and 9 writings “made in a place open to the public or a public forum in connection with an issue of 10 public interest;” or (4) “any other conduct in furtherance of the exercise of the constitutional right 11 of petition or the constitutional right of free speech in connection with a public issue or an issue of 12 public interest.” (Code Civ. Proc. §425.16(e).)

13 The California Supreme Court has clarified that when assessing whether claims arise from 14 protected activity, courts must distinguish between the acts underlying a plaintiff’s causes of 15 action and the “claimed illegitimacy of [those] acts[, which] is an issue... the plaintiff must raise 16 and support in the context of the discharge of the plaintiff’s [secondary] burden to provide a prima 17 facie showing of the merits of the plaintiff’s case.” (Navellier v. Sletten, supra, 29 Cal.4th at p. 94 18 (quotes and cites omitted).) In other words, regardless of the legal grounds on which the plaintiff 19 seeks redress, the only relevant issue in assessing the first prong of the anti-SLAPP analysis is the 20 nature of the defendant’s act that gave rise to the alleged cause of action.

21 In this case, Defendants’ alleged conduct underlying the causes of action in the FAC can be 22 divided into two categories: (1) broadcasting Chuck Smith’s sermons over the radio; and (2) 23 withholding personal property from Catheryn Smith. Each of the alleged acts is protected under 24 the anti-SLAPP statute.

25 A. Broadcasting the Sermons Is Protected Religious Speech

26 One category of speech protected under the anti-SLAPP statute is statements and writings 27 “made in a place open to the public or a public forum.” (Code Civ. Proc. §425.16(e).) Radio 28 broadcasts are considered public fora in the context of §425.16(e)(3). (See Seelig v. Infinity

1 Broadcasting Corp. (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 798, 807.) Moreover, broadcasting the sermons over 2 the radio is a form of constitutionally protected religious speech.

3 For over 20 years, the Church has been broadcasting the Word for Today program, as well as 4 other Gospel programs, as a part of its outreach and evangelism efforts. (Wing Decl., ¶ 3.) The 5 broadcasts allow the Church to spread its religious beliefs and teachings to listeners around the 6 world. (Ibid.) This precise form of religious speech is protected under the free speech clause of the 7 First Amendment. (Capitol Square v. Pinette (1995) 515 U.S. 753, 760 (“private religious speech, 8 far from being a First Amendment orphan, is as fully protected under the Free Speech Clause as 9 secular private expression”).) The Church’s broadcast division is not a business venture; the 10 broadcasts serve a solely religious and community service-based purpose. (Wing Decl., ¶4.)
11 Therefore, because the broadcasts are constitutionally-protected religious speech expressed in a 12 public forum, they are protected under §425.16(e)(3).

13 B. Plaintiffs Allege Defendants Withheld Funds in Furtherance of Their Continued
14 Broadcast of the Sermons

15 Another protected category under the anti-SLAPP statute is any “conduct in furtherance of the 16 exercise of” protected speech. (Code Civ. Proc. §425.16(e)) “An act is in furtherance of the right 17 of free speech if the act helps to advance that right or assists in the exercise of that right.” (Hunter 18 v. CBS Broadcasting, Inc. (2013) 221 Cal.App.4th 1510.) The plaintiff in Hunter alleged gender 19 and age discrimination against the defendants when they hired young women as meteorologists for 20 their news broadcasts ahead of plaintiff, a middle-aged man. (Id. at pp. 1514-1515.) The court held 21 that news broadcasts qualify as exercises of protected speech, and that the selection of weather 22 anchors “helped advance or assist” the protected expression and therefore “qualifies as a form of 23 protected activity.” (Id. at p. 1521.)

24 By Plaintiffs’ own allegation, Defendants’ alleged acts of withholding personal property from 25 Catheryn Smith were taken in furtherance of Defendants’ efforts to continue broadcasting the 26 sermons over the radio. Plaintiffs allege throughout the FAC that one of the primary objectives of 27 Defendants’ conspiracy was to prevent Catheryn Smith (and, by extension, Plaintiffs) from being 28 able to resist Defendants’ use of the pastoral materials by withholding personal property. (See e.g.

1 FAC ¶29(d)-(e).) Therefore, Plaintiffs themselves allege Defendants’ purported acts of 2 withholding property from Catheryn Smith were “conduct in furtherance of” the continued 3 broadcast of sermons over the radio, which is constitutionally protected religious speech.

4 C. The Broadcasts Constitute Matters of Public Interest

5 Finally, in order to be protected under the anti-SLAPP statute, the acts must be in connection 6 with a matter of public interest. “Section 425.16 does not define ‘public interest,’ but its preamble 7 states that its provisions ‘shall be construed broadly’ to safeguard ‘the valid exercise of the 8 constitutional rights of freedom of speech and petition for the redress of grievances.’ 9 (§425.16(a).)” (Nygaard, Inc. v. Uusi-Kerttula (2008) 159 Cal.App.4th 1027, 1039.) In Nygaard, the 10 court held that “an issue of public interest... is any issue in which the public is interested. In other 11 words, the issue need not be significant to be protected by the anti-SLAPP statute – it is enough 12 that it is one in which the public takes an interest.” (Id. at p. 1276.)

13 The courts have further clarified that an issue is a matter of public interest if it is “something of 14 concern to a substantial number of people.” (Weinberg v. Feisel (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th 1122, 15 1132-1133.) In Tamkin v. CBS Broadcasting, Inc. (2011) 193 Cal.App.4th 133, the plaintiffs 16 alleged that they were defamed when their names were used for villain characters in early drafts of 17 the script for an episode of the crime drama “C.S.I.” In reversing the trial court’s denial of CBS’s 18 anti-SLAPP motion, the Court of Appeal held that “C.S.I.” was of interest to a sufficient number 19 of people to render its script a matter of public interest. (Id. at p. 144.) In the context of this case, 20 there is, without doubt, continuing, widespread public interest in religion generally, and in the 21 teachings of Calvary Chapel and of Chuck Smith in particular. Tellingly, Plaintiffs concede public 22 interest in their own pleading. (See, e.g., FAC, ¶¶12, 14, 15, 17, 23, 26.) Defendants’ broadcasting 23 of the pastoral messages is inexorably intertwined with the tenets, practices, and beliefs of Calvary
24 Chapel, which has thousands of members around the world. Therefore, it is clear that the sermons 25 Defendants broadcast are of interest to a substantial number of people, and the sermons and all 26 acts in furtherance of their broadcast are therefore protected under the anti-SLAPP statute.

27 Thus, Defendants have met their minimal burden of establishing that the conduct complained 28 of was protected under the anti-SLAPP statute. The burden now shifts to Plaintiffs to present evidence to establish a likelihood that the causes of action in the FAC will succeed on the merits.

V. MANDERSON LACKS STANDING TO ASSERT CATHERYN SMITH'S CLAIMS

“Every action must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except as otherwise provided by statute.” (Code Civ. Proc. §367.) A real party in interest is defined as the person possessing the right sued upon by reason of the substantive law. (Personnel Com. v. Barstow Unified School Dist. (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 871, 877.) If a plaintiff’s lack of standing appears on the face of the complaint, the complaint must be dismissed. (County of Fresno v. Shelton (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 966, 1009.) This is the situation presented by the seventh and eighth causes of action in the FAC.

Catheryn Smith is not a named plaintiff in this lawsuit, either by herself or through a guardian ad litem. Manderson has filed an application for appointment as guardian ad litem for Catheryn Smith, in order to add Ms. Smith as a plaintiff – Defendants have opposed Manderson’s appointment as such – but no order has yet been entered by the court, and Ms. Smith therefore remains a nonparty. Instead, Manderson purports to prosecute the seventh and eighth causes of action on behalf of Catheryn Smith, in her alleged capacity as attorney-in-fact for Ms. Smith. (FAC, ¶¶108, 121.) This is improper, as Manderson lacks standing to sue on behalf of a nonparty.

An attorney-in-fact is “a person granted authority to act for the principal in a power of attorney.” (Probate Code §4014.) The holder of a power-of-attorney is not a real party in interest and may not prosecute the action in her own name. (Arnold Management Corporation v. Eischen (1984) 158 Cal.App.3d 575, 581.) In Arnold Management Corporation, AMC filed an action to set aside a foreclosure and for damages, as attorney-in-fact holding special power of attorney as to the interests of other plaintiffs in the case. The court sustained the defendants’ demurrer on the grounds that AMC lacked standing, and dismissed AMC from the action, holding: “An attorney in fact is not a trustee. One who is described in an instrument, whether parol or special, as the attorney in fact of another, does not hold the character of trustee, and is not a necessary party to represent the interest of the principal. Our statute requires every action to be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest.” (Ibid.)

Catheryn Smith is not named as a plaintiff in this lawsuit. Rather, Manderson is the plaintiff,

1 acting as Ms. Smith's "attorney-in-fact." As explained, however, the law provides that Ms. Smith 2 is the real party in interest and the only person who can bring claims on her behalf. Thus, the 3 causes of action brought by Manderson, on behalf of Catheryn Smith, must be dismissed.

4 VI. EVEN IF CATHERYN SMITH WERE ADDED AS A PARTY, THE SEVENTH
5 AND EIGHTH CAUSES OF ACTION CANNOT SUCCEED ON THE MERITS

6 As noted above, Manderson has applied to be appointed guardian ad litem for Catheryn Smith, 7 who is not currently a party in this litigation. Even if Ms. Smith were added as a plaintiff, 8 however, the seventh and eighth causes of action cannot succeed on the underlying merits.

9 A. Defendants Have Not Withheld Any Benefits Owed to Catheryn Smith

10 The seventh cause of action in the FAC alleges Defendants committed financial abuse of 11 Catheryn Smith, an elder, by withholding life insurance and annuity proceeds to which Ms. Smith 12 is lawfully entitled. However, the evidence is indisputable that Defendants have not withheld any 13 benefits owed to Catheryn Smith or to Plaintiffs.

14 With regard to the life insurance policy, Chuck and Catheryn Smith voluntarily transferred all 15 rights to the benefits of the life insurance plan to CCCM on or about September 27, 2006. (Dyer 16 Decl., Exh. B.) As the court can see in Exhibit B to the Dyer declaration, not only did Chuck 17 Smith sign the form requesting the change of beneficiary, and the designation of CCCM as the 18 beneficiary to one hundred percent of the policy proceeds, Catheryn Smith herself signed it on 19 September 27, 2006. Her signature is found under the following typewritten statement: "If the 20 policy was issued or if the policy holder lives in a community property state (listed above), his or 21 her spouse (if any) must sign this Request for Change for Beneficiary Form if the change would 22 deprive the spouse of an interest in the proceeds of the policy." Thus, since 2006, CCCM has been 23 the sole and rightful owner of any and all benefits under the life insurance plan, and neither 24 Catheryn Smith nor any other person has any rightful claim to those funds.

25 With regard to the annuity, Defendants have never been in possession of any of the benefits 26 therefrom and have never taken any steps to prevent Catheryn Smith from receiving such funds. In 27 fact, Defendants have gone to great lengths to assist Ms. Smith in securing her benefits and 28 ensuring that she has complete access to and control over those benefits. (See Dyer Decl., ¶¶4-6.)

1 Defendants are informed and believe that Ms. Smith has received all of the benefits from the 2 annuity plan, including back payments for the amounts that were delayed by procedural issues 3 following Chuck Smith’s death. This cause of action simply has no basis in fact or law.

4 B. Constructive Trust Is a Remedy, Not a Cause of Action

5 The eighth cause of action purports to be an independent cause of action for constructive trust.
6 However, constructive trust is an equitable remedy, not an independent cause of action. “In an 7 action for constructive trust one must plead facts constituting the cause of action, such as fraud, 8 breach of fiduciary duty,... and specifically identifiable property.” (Ehret v. Ichioka (1967) 247 9 Cal.App.2d 637, 642.) Even if she were a party, Catheryn Smith has not alleged a valid predicate 10 cause of action upon which the remedy of constructive trust could be pursued. In addition, the 11 FAC alleges no facts or law establishing a fiduciary duty owed by Defendants to Catheryn Smith.
12 Therefore, even if Catheryn Smith were properly a party in this litigation, she could not prevail as 13 to the eighth cause of action.

14 VII. TWFT’S COPYRIGHT CLAIMS ARE PREEMPTED BY FEDERAL LAW

15 All seven causes of action alleged by TWFT amount to claims of copyright infringement.
16 TWFT alleges that it owns the copyrights to Chuck Smith’s pastoral messages, writings and 17 teachings, as well as those of his widow, Catheryn Smith. (See, e.g., FAC, ¶17.) TWFT alleges 18 that, in the time since Chuck Smith’s death, the Church, by and through its officers, directors, and 19 employees has wrongfully disseminated copyrighted materials that rightfully belong to TWFT.
20 (See, e.g., FAC, ¶25.) The state court lacks jurisdiction to address these exclusively federal claims.

21 The federal Copyright Act of 1976 specifically preempts “all legal or equitable rights that are 22 equivalent to any of the exclusive rights within the general scope of copyright” as specified in the 23 Copyright Act “in works of authorship that are fixed in a tangible medium of expression” and 24 come within the subject matter of copyright defined in the Act. (17 USC §301(a).) The pastoral 25 works at issue – writings and audio recordings – are the type of subject matter that the Copyright 26 Act expressly protects. (See 17 USC §102(a) (defining subject matter of copyright protection as 27 subsisting in “literary works,” “audiovisual works,” and “sound recordings”).) Federal statute 28 further provides that the federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction over copyright claims. (28 USC

1 §1338.) Therefore, the Copyright Act’s preemption of state law copyright claims is jurisdictional.
2 (Balboa Ins. Co. v. Trans Global Equities (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 1327, 1338.)

3 The courts use a two-part test for determining whether a state law claim is preempted by the 4 Copyright Act. A claim is preempted if: (1) “the subject of the claim [is] a work fixed in a tangible 5 medium of expression... within the general scope of copyright;” and (2) “the right asserted under 6 state law [is] equivalent to the exclusive rights contained in [the Copyright Act].” (Kabehie v.
7 Zoland (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 513, 520.) “[A] right which is ‘equivalent to copyright’ is one 8 which is infringed by the mere act of reproduction, performance, distribution or display.... If, 9 under state law the act of reproduction, performance, distribution or display, ... will in itself 10 infringe the state created right, then such right is preempted.” (Motown Record Corp. v. George A.
11 Hormel & Co. (C.D. Cal. 1987) 657 F.Supp. 1236, 1239 (quoting 1 M. Nimmer, The Law of 12 Copyright §1.01[B][3] at 1-11-12 (1984)).)

13 Although the FAC is convoluted, it is clear that all claims pertaining to alleged 14 misappropriation and infringement of pastoral materials are tantamount to claims of copyright 15 infringement. TWFT alleges that it possesses the exclusive right to:

16 “own, disseminate (including by broadcast) and control the dissemination of all of Pastor
17 Chuck’s work output and related intellectual property, including all of Pastor Chuck’s 18 written teachings, works, notes, authored materials (including books), sermons, master 19 recordings, edited recordings of sermons, messages, tapes, videos, pamphlets, CD’s... and other documentary or recorded materials relating to Pastor Chuck’s pastoral work and appearances, as well as any intellectual property and/or copies thereof.” (FAC, ¶17.)

20 The rights TWFT claims, including distribution rights, duplication rights, and licensing rights, 21 are the same exclusive rights that the Copyright Act grants to copyright holders. (17 USC §106.)

22 TWFT alleges seven causes of action: constructive trust, fraud, accounting, unfair business 23 practices, conversion, breach of fiduciary duty, and injunctive relief. All seven are equivalent to 24 copyright claims. The court in Motown Record Corp., supra, explicitly held that a cause of action 25 for unfair business practices does not add an “extra element” to a copyright infringement claim 26 and is therefore preempted by the Copyright Act. (657 F.Supp. at p. 1239.) The Motown court also 27 held that claims for the remedies of constructive trust and accounting are preempted because they 28 are the same remedies provided under the Copyright Act. (Id. at p. 1241.) By the same logic, a

1 claim for injunctive relief must also be preempted, as that is a further remedy for copyright owners
2 who prove infringement under the Copyright Act. (See 17 USC §502.) In Melchior v. New Line
3 Prods., Inc. (2003) 106 Cal.App.4th 779, the court similarly held that a conversion claim is 4 preempted where the property allegedly taken is copyrighted materials. (Id. at pp. 791-792.)

5 TWFT's remaining two causes of action, fraud and breach of fiduciary duty, are also 6 preempted. Both are premised on the Church's continued use of the pastoral materials despite its 7 alleged transfer of the copyrights in the pastoral materials to TWFT. Misrepresentation claims are 8 preempted to the extent they are predicated on allegations of wrongful copying of copyrighted 9 materials. (Litchfield v. Spielberg (9th Cir. 1984) 736 F.2d 1352, 1358.) Similarly, a cause of 10 action for breach of fiduciary duty based on unauthorized use of copyrighted materials "does not 11 add any 'extra element' which changes the nature of the action" and is therefore preempted. (Del 12 Madera Properties v. Rhodes and Gardner, Inc. (9th Cir. 1987) 82 F.2d 973, 977.)

13 Although TWFT's copyright-related claims are intermingled with claims pertaining to the 14 alleged misappropriation of personal property such as computers and files, the gravamen of the 15 causes of action amounts to claims of copyright infringement. While the FAC explicitly refers to 16 intellectual property in many instances, under the well-pleaded complaint rule, even other 17 allegations that are not so explicit must be dismissed. A plaintiff's claim to ownership of works 18 which fall within the scope of federal copyright protection is effectively a federal claim for 19 copyright infringement, even if the plaintiff "artfully" seeks to avoid claiming the federal issues 20 explicitly. (JustMed, Inc. v. Byce (9th Cir. 2010) 600 F.3d 1118, 1123.) Thus, TWFT cannot 21 prevail on the merits of any of its seven causes of action, because relief for copyright infringement 22 cannot be granted in state court.

23 VIII. EVEN IF TWFT'S COPYRIGHT CLAIMS COULD BE ADJUDICATED IN STATE
24 COURT, THE ALLEGATIONS IN THE FAC ARE UNTENABLE

25 Even if TWFT's claims were not preempted by federal copyright law, the first, third, sixth, and 26 ninth causes of action are untenable as a matter of law.

27 A. As a Matter of Law, Defendants Owed No Fiduciary Duty to TWFT

28 The sixth cause of action alleges Defendants owed a fiduciary duty to TWFT and seeks

1 damages for breach of said fiduciary duty. As a matter of law, however, Defendants owed no 2 fiduciary duty to TWFT. “Before a person can be charged with a fiduciary obligation, he must 3 either knowingly undertake to act on behalf and for the benefit of another, or must enter into a 4 relationship which imposes that undertaking as a matter of law.” (Committee on Children’s 5 Television, Inc. v. General Foods Corp. (1983) 35 Cal.3d 197, 221.) Thus, there are two types of 6 fiduciary duties: those imposed by law and those undertaken by agreement. (GAB Business
7 Services, Inc. v. Lindsey & Newsom Claim Services, Inc. (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 409, 416.)

8 Fiduciary duties are imposed as a matter of law “in certain technical, legal relationships.” 9 (Ibid.) These include relationships between principal and agent, attorney and client, partner and 10 partner, corporate officers and their corporation, guardian and ward, et cetera. TWFT alleges in a 11 conclusory fashion that “At all relevant times, the defendants stood in the position of fiduciaries 12 toward the TWFT.” (FAC, ¶ 96.) However, TWFT does not allege that any “technical, legal 13 relationship” existed between Defendants and TWFT such as that between principal and agent or 14 attorney and client. Therefore, as a matter of law, the only way that a fiduciary duty could be 15 imposed on Defendants is if they knowingly agreed to act on TWFT’s behalf. (Committee on 16 Children’s Television, Inc. v. General Foods Corp., supra, 35 Cal.3d at p. 221.)

17 There is no evidence that Defendants, or any of them, agreed to act as fiduciaries on behalf of 18 TWFT. The only agreement that is alleged is an agreement that CCCM would compensate TWFT 19 for its use of the pastoral materials. (See FAC, ¶98.) The courts have been clear that “[a] mere 20 contract or a debt does not constitute a trust or create a fiduciary relationship.” (Waverly 21 Productions, Inc. v. RKO General, Inc. (1963) 217 Cal.App.2d 721, 732.) Thus, even if TWFT 22 had adequately alleged the existence of a contract between itself and Defendants (which it has 23 not), the contract alleged does not create a fiduciary relationship. As a matter of law, Defendants 24 owed no fiduciary duty to TWFT. TWFT cannot prevail on the merits of this cause of action.

25 B. Constructive Trust, Accounting, and Injunctive Relief Are Remedies, Not 26 Independent Causes of Action

27 In addition to its tort causes of action, TWFT asserts separate causes of action for constructive 28 trust, accounting, and injunctive relief. All three of these forms of relief are equitable remedies that

1 may be awarded if certain criteria are met, including the insufficiency of legal damages. However, 2 none of the three constitute separate causes of action independent of the underlying legal wrongs.
3 As outlined above, all of TWFT's alleged tort causes of action are legally deficient. Therefore, 4 TWFT cannot prevail on these remedial causes of action.

5 "In an action for constructive trust one must plead facts constituting the cause of action, such 6 as fraud, breach of fiduciary duty,... and specifically identifiable property." (Ehret v. Ichioka, 7 supra, 247 Cal.App.2d at p. 642.) The remedy of accounting is similarly available only where the 8 plaintiff can plead and prove that there was a breach of fiduciary duty, that the balance due is 9 complicated and unknown, and that actionable fraud was committed. (Union Bank v. Superior 10 Court (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 573, 593.) As a matter of law, Defendants owed no fiduciary duty to 11 TWFT. Absent a valid predicate cause of action or a breach of fiduciary duty, there can be no 12 claims for constructive trust or accounting.

13 In addition, an "injunction is an equitable remedy for certain torts or wrongful acts of a 14 defendant where a damage remedy is inadequate." (Art Movers, Inc. v. Ni West, Inc. (1992) 2 15 Cal.App.4th 640, 646.) An injunction "is a determination on the merits that a plaintiff has 16 prevailed on a cause of action for tort or other wrongful act against a defendant and that equitable 17 relief is appropriate." (Id. (emphasis added).) Therefore, injunctive relief is not an independent 18 claim upon which relief may be granted.

19 IX. CONCLUSION

20 For the foregoing reasons, Defendants respectfully request that the court strike Plaintiffs' 21 FAC, in its entirety, pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure, section 425.16.
